Under a Cloud.

It haprens to most persons to be under a cloud at some period in their lives, and territy a good many have suffered from the same causes which if we do not nuscalculate the force of his sensitiveness must be making the leisure of Mr. Theodore Tilton the reverse of agree title And the way of it was this: He was angaged to deliver a lecture at the town of Wellington, Ohio, and when he appeared on the piatform it became apparenythat he was in pretty much the same condition which characterized the Shapherd when he attended the teameeting at the Bricklayers Arms Branch hapel with the Messes. Weller. Mr. Tilton, however, stendied himself, and then, feeling oppressed by the heat of the room, informed his audience that it was an outrage to make a man lecture in so ill-rentilated an apartment, and that the only way to ventilate it would be to take a howitzer and blow a hole through the roof. Having relieved his feelings in this head he preceded to express the minion gratuitously that "the people thew less and grew meaner as they went further west." In the course of the eveming he appears to have made a good many amin'de observations of the same kind, and we really should not have thought his stricture at all vindicated by the fact had his audience risen and pulled him through a herse-pond, or lung him out of the window. It is said that this is not the first or second time that Mr. Tilton has made himself con spicuous by speeches of this character and if that be time it speaks volumes for the civilization and forbearance of the people among whom he travels that his mogress should have been altogether without interruption. We rather doubt whether oven at this fate day there is my town in California where a lecturer rould insuit an audience in the Tiltonian style without running some risk of personal chastisement, and as do not know that we should be glad to think that such an impodent fellow would be in no langer. Stin there is perhaps something to be allowed for the kind of people who are capable of sitting under such a rufian and rascal as Theodore Tilton. may be supposed that they are by selection a poor spirited lot of mortals, and tion a poor spirited lot of mortals, and possibly the lecturer himself is at intervals to overcome by the sense of his own baseness that he cannot aroud expressing his contempt for these who are mean mough to sit and listen to him in the whole, therefore, perhaps it is the most fitting errangement bettle people who people who perts hear there! There should be insulted by him. | Secretary mente Bacord.

Catching a Skunk.

This is only a skunk story. It is a rise one, however, and the seems is lorated near the northeast shore of Lake Palice. The boy of the family got a stee trap to catch a ground beg. It was about s quarter of a mile away from the house. Along about sinck he want out to look at thatrap and found assumk careful therein by the to a too. The levy ratherest to the Louse and reported progress. He nee led assistance in getting the varnint but of the trap. The entire family, young and old, proceeded with the young paint and 1 arnish Brush ... wink seemed not the least on disconserted by the formidable array. He analy watched the procession as it approached and acted as though he conadered himself master of the situation. The party halted for consultation. It wouldn't do to leave the animal to die in the trap, because it wouldn't be at all likely that anyone could approach after he skunk was dead. A long rope confined the trapand the skunk's foreleg to 1 peg. Patertamilias hit upon a pian that hatmmadiately proceeded to put into execution. Slipping to the peg he arefully nutted the tope. The skunk quietly eyed him through the operation is if wondering what would come next. Paterfacticles gave a gentle pull at the end of the rope. The mank tried to mm around for the purpose of ficeing or therwise, but a pull at the rope kept him bearing toward the man. And so they went-the man pulling, the skunk somming and following, and the family ninging up the rear of the procession at a respectable distance behind. The lake was a quarter of a toile away, and in that irrection they proceeded. All went well. The father was in high glee over the success of his plan. The skunk coulon't help keeping his head pointing toward the man, and that didn't seem to satisfy him. At last the animal got a glimpse over his shoulder of the weman and children, and made up his mind that they were within range. Simultaneously with this conclusion, the sir was filled with screams and ejaculations from the group who were following. The air was t'so filled with something else. There was a hasty examination of clothes, a holding of noses and a scampering. Each member of the group insisted that every other member was hit. The procosmon for the rest of the journey consaied only of paterfamilias and the skunk. The crowd smelled the battle from afar. When the lake was reached paterfamilias gathered all his energies for a final effort. The polecat did the same The intention of paterfamilies was to witch the rope so violently as to throw he skunk into the lake. The intention of the skunk was well, both accomphished their purpose. The skunk went whirling through the air and landed on paterfamilias. Both were hors de combat. he skunk was drowned and paterfami toe (Cal.) Republican.

OF THE

NATIONAL REPUBLICAN PARTY.

When in the corronry of Providence, this had was to be pursed or human slavery, and when the strength of the descriment of the period by the people for the receipt was to be demonstrated, the Republican party cane into power. Its decis have passed the history and we had back to them with prince, incited by darf normalizes and high structor the good of an emery and mankind. And looking to the father with unfaltering courage hope and purfature with unfaltering courage, hope and pur-pose, we, the representative of the party in as-tic all convention assembled, make the follow-ing helaration of principles:

First-The United States of America is a na-First.—The i nited States of America is a ma-tion and not a league, and by the combined workings of National and State Governments under their respective Constitutions the rights of every citizen are secured at home and pre-tected abroad, and the common welfare pro-

Second—The Republican party has preserved these governments to the hundredth anniversary of the nation's birth, and they are now embodiments of the great fruths spoken at its cradle—that all men are cosated equal: that they are that all men are created equal. that they are endowed by their Creator with certain inalienable rights, among which are life, liberty and the pursuit of happiness; that for the attainment of these ends governments have been instituted among men, deriving their just powers from the consent of the governed, and until these traths are cheerfully obeyed, or, if needed, to be vigorously enforced, the work of the Republican party is unfirished.

Third-The appropriate profession of the

The pewer to provide for the enforcement of the principles embodied, if the recent constitutional amendment is vested by these amendments in the Congress of the United States—and all declars it so to be—the science obligation of the Legislative and Executive Departments of the Government is to put into tunediate and vigorous exercise all the constitutional powers for removing any just causes of discontents, the part of any class and for securing to every American citizen complete liberty and every American citizen complete liberty and tast equality in the exercise of civil, political and public rights. To this end we imperatively and public rights. To the start we reper there, are lemand a Congress and a Chief Executive whose courage and fidelity to those cutties shall not rafter until these results are placed beyond dispute or result.
